SECOND AMENDED PETITION FOR RELIEF
IN THE FORM OF A WRIT OF MANDAMUS¹

¹ Petitioners are cognizant of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 81(b) which abolished mandamus actions in United States District Court, but nonetheless authorizes “relief previously available through [writs of mandamus] by appropriate action or motion under these rules.” F.R.C.P. 81(b). Petitioners herein are seeking relief via the All Writs Act (§ 1361) and an Action to Compel a United States Officer to Perform His Duty (§ 1361).

TO: The Honorable, the Judges of Said Court:

United Sovereign Americans, Inc., Mary Benefield, Charlice Byrd, Lydia A.G. Davidson, Deborah J. Davis, David A. Cross, Mark Davis, Kevin M. Monica, Frank H. Schneider by undersigned counsel, hereby submit this Petition for Relief in the Form of a Writ of Mandamus, directed to Respondents Brad Raffensperger, in his Official Capacity as the Secretary of the State of Georgia, Chris Carr, in his official Capacity as Attorney General of Georgia, Merrick Garland, in his official capacity as Attorney General of the United States, as Attorney General of the United States,

Respectfully Represents:

Summary of Petitioners' Argument and Examples of Relief Requested

1. The Congress of the United States has outlined the minimum standards which must be maintained by every state in order for a federal election to be considered reliable. As outlined below, in Georgia's 2022 federal election those minimum standards were not met by Georgia election officials rendering the certified election results that year unreliable. Respondents in their official capacities engaged in insufficient efforts to ensure that the 2022 performance is not repeated in subsequent federal elections beginning in 2024.

2. If the 2022 election performance is repeated in 2024, Petitioners and all Georgia voters will suffer damages.

3. Apart from Court action in equity, no other mechanism exists in the law for Petitioners to require Respondents to perform their ministerial duties requiring that Georgia's federal elections be conducted in conformity with the law as Congress has set forth.

4. Only this Honorable Court has the power to require Respondents to act to bring the 2024 (and subsequent) federal elections supervised by Georgia authorities into conformity with the minimum standards for reliability set down by Congress and outlined infra.

5. Without the Court's action, Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the 2024 (and subsequent) Georgia federal election results will be unreliable in the same way, and thus unreliable for the same reasons that the 2022 results are unreliable.

6. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that only properly registered voters cast votes in combined federal and state elections beginning in 2024.

7. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that only votes properly cast are counted in combined federal and Georgia elections beginning in 2024.

8. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that all votes properly cast are counted correctly in combined federal and Georgia elections in even numbered years beginning in 2024.

9. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that only votes properly cast are counted in combined federal and Georgia elections beginning in 2024.

10. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that all voting systems are compliant with all critical infrastructure requirements and risk assessments are completed within the actual use context, thereby assuring that every ballot is correctly and uniformly processed, as well as accurately tabulated and secured in combined federal and Georgia elections beginning in 2024.

11. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that the authenticity of every ballot counted is proven by the maintenance of a comprehensive, unbroken chain of custody from the voter's hand to the final certified result, and the state of Georgia's election officials maintain records of said chain of custody post-election, in compliance with all legally prescribed safeguards in combined federal and Georgia elections beginning in 2024.

12. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that combined federal and Georgia elections in even numbered years beginning in 2024 are conducted with the transparency required by law.

13. Petitioners seek this Court's intervention to ensure that only votes properly cast are counted in combined federal and Georgia elections beginning in 2024.

14. Petitioners seek this Court’s intervention clarifying and ordering that the currently accepted Federal definition “to certify” is to attest that an official measurement is both accurate and the finding of accuracy was reaching in a fully compliant manner, thereby, directing that the “certification of elections” by Georgia’s election officials of combined federal and Georgia elections from 2024 onward constitutes an “attestation,” ostensibly under penalty of perjury, by the certifying official(s) that the vote counts are accurate and the cast and counted votes and the election itself were all conducted in compliance with applicable federal and state law.

15. Petitioners, upon review of the statutes cited below, believe and therefore aver that federal and state law specify what Georgia’s officials must conform to, at a minimum, to properly conduct a combined federal and state election and prior certifying that election.

16. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that based on the analysis below, combined with the various exhibits attached to this petition and incorporated by reference herein, that in the 2022 combined federal and state election, officials of the state of Georgia failed to ensure that safeguards were in place as mandated by various statutes designed to ensure the integrity of the elections.

17. Petitioners believe and therefore aver the failure by Georgia’s election officials to know of and implement the safeguards required by law in 2022 allowed Georgia’s election officials to certify that election despite analysis showing the election results were per se unreliable on account of apparent error rates exceeding those the law permits before the results in any federal election become unreliable.

18. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that apparent error rates that exceed the maximum error rate allowed by law destroyed the integrity of the 2022 election making full confidence in the accuracy of that election impossible.

19. While Petitioners cannot state with certainty that the 2022 Georgia General Election produced “winning” candidates who should not have won, Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Georgia cannot state with certainty that all “winning” candidates received more votes than their “losing” candidates because the election itself was compromised by the Georgia’s failure to conform to the requirements of federal law designed to ensure reliable election results.

20. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Congress mandated the maximum number of election errors which were permissible in the 2022 combined federal and state elections in the state of Georgia (and, indeed, in all states and voting territories). An error rate above the maximum permissible rate set by Congress renders an election uncertifiable because the results are unreliable. Nevertheless, Georgia's officials certified the 2022 election.

21. Petitioners do not seek relief in this Court in a challenge to the outcome of the 2022 federal election in Georgia. Petitioners agree that it is possible that in every federal contested election supervised and certified by the state of Georgia in 2022 the "winner" received more votes than the "loser."

22. Petitioners believe and therefore aver, however, that the certification by Georgia officials of the 2022 election was done despite the integrity of the election being suspect on account of apparent error rates occurring in that election that exceeded the error rate Congress permits before federal election results cannot be relied upon as accurate, and the state of Georgia did nothing to investigate those apparent errors before certifying the election.

23. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that it is reasonable to believe that systemic issues which occurred in the 2022 combined Federal and state election in Georgia will continue uncorrected in 2024, 2026, 2028, etc. absent intervention by this Court.

24. Petitioners aver they have called the various issues with the 2022 election to the attention of Georgia's officials who failed to take sufficient action to ensure no further repeats of those issues cited here affecting the integrity of the 2022 election.

25. The relief requested by Petitioners in the form of a Writ of Mandamus seeks, broadly speaking, this Court order Respondents to perform the ministerial functions their jobs require by taking actions to rectify reliability issues evident in the 2022 election.²

² Petitioners do not request this Court order Respondents to exercise their discretion or make any decision at all apart from enforcing the specific, non-discretionary, requirements of the law outlined inter alia below.

2022 Combined Federal and State Election in Georgia Produced
Unreliable Results and Should Not Have Been Certified

26. In the Help America Vote Act (“HAVA”) 52 U.S.C.A. § 21081, Congress mandates as follows: HAVA - voting system error rate “...(5) Error RATES.—The error rate of the voting system in counting ballots (determined by taking into account only those errors which are attributable to the voting system and not attributable to an act of the voter) shall comply with the error rate standards established under section 3.2.1 of the voting systems standards issued by the Federal Election Commission (“FEC”) which are in effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.”

27. Congress enacted and President Bush signed HAVA into law in 2002 and it remains the law of the United States to date.

28. The voting standards of the FEC in effect at the time Congress enacted HAVA in 2002 were the Voting Systems Standards Volume I: Performance Standards (2002).³

29. Those voting standards, in effect at the time HAVA became law, allowed for one error per 500,000 ballot positions.

30. Plaintiffs believe and therefore aver that a federal election that exceeded an error rate of one error per 500,000 ballot positions renders a federal election unreliable.

31. As the HAVA provision enacted in 2002 cited above has not changed, the error rate of one error per 500,000 ballot positions is currently the law of the United States.

32. A “ballot position” refers to the number of individual “choices” a voter could make on a single ballot. For example, if a particular ballot has thirty little circles for the voter to fill-in or not fill-in, that single ballot would be said to contain thirty ballot positions.

33. A voting system error occurs anytime the voting scanning machine should have discerned an error, not made by the voter, while counting one of those ballot positions on a scanned ballot.

³ As of 2021, there have been five iterations of national level voting system standards. The Federal Election Commission published the first two sets of federal standards in 1990 and 2002 (VSS1990 and VSS2002). The Election Assistance Commission then adopted Version 1.0 of the Voluntary Voting System Guidelines (VMSG 1.0, or VMSG2005) on December 13, 2005. On March 31, 2015, the EAC commissioners approved VMSG 1.1 (VMSG2015). On February 10, 2021, the EAC approved VMSG 2.0 (VMSG2021).

34. Experts working for the FEC estimated that 500,000 ballot positions equaled 125,000 individual ballots. (See Election Assistance Commission Voluntary Voting System Guidelines of 2015, U.S. Election Assistance Commission. United States [Web Archive] Retrieved from the Election Assistance Commission, https://www.eac.gov/sites/default/files/eac_assets/1/28/VVSG.1.1.VOL.1.FINAL1.pdf)

35. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the EAC desired to clarify the meaning of 500,000 ballot positions in terms of how many individual ballots “make-up” 500,000 ballot positions in order to make easier understanding the election “error rates” permissible by HAVA.

36. Petitioners believe and therefore aver (and will present expert testimony to so substantiate) that the calculation made by the FEC that 500,000 ballot positions represents 125,000 individual ballots is correct and represents the proper interpretation of federal law and Congressional intent under HAVA.

37. In the 2022 Georgia General Election, 3,959,230 individual ballots were recorded by election officials as cast.

38. For the 2022 General Election if 3,959,230 (ballots cast) is divided by 125,000 (because the law allows for one error per 125,000 ballots), that leaves thirty-two (32) (rounded up) as the maximum number of errors permitted under federal law for that election. Only upon a showing of 32 or fewer errors, then, would HAVA permit Georgia’s election officials to certify the 2022 election as valid.

39. If there were more than thirty-two (32) voting system errors in the entire ballot tabulation for all ballots cast in the 2022 election in Georgia, the election results are unreliable.

40. Georgia exceeded this benchmark of thirty-two (32) voting system errors in the 2022 General Election as outlined below.

41. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that contributing to the unreliability of the state of Georgia’s 2022 election is the fact that Georgia’s voter registration rolls, themselves, contained hundreds of thousands of potential errors at the time of the 2022 General Election.

42. These potential errors were in the form of illegal duplicate registrations, voters with invalid or illogical voter history, voters placed in inactive statuses on questionable authority, backdated registrations, registrations with a modified date prior to registration, invalid or illogical registration dates, age discrepant registrants, and registrants with questionable addresses.

43. While Congress may not have specifically intended for these types of errors to be included in the one out of 500,000 error rate, Petitioners believe and therefore aver that this figure provides a general benchmark for what the Legislature considered an acceptable degree of error in our elections.

44. Such errors jeopardize the validity of elections throughout Georgia, bring doubt as to the accuracy and integrity of the state's currently-in-place voting systems, undermine Georgian's collective voting rights, all in violation of existing state and federal election laws.

45. Petitioners seek redress from these voter registration apparent errors, relief from blatantly inaccurate voter registration rolls, relief from discrepancies between votes cast and actual votes reported, and relief from extreme voting errors generally, which collectively and historically amount to violations of federal election laws, Georgia election laws, and various voting rights encompassed by the United States Constitution.

46. The aforesaid violations of federal and state law have in the past resulted in the certification of election results from provably flawed, inaccurate, and obscure processes outside the view of impartial witnesses or the public, and Respondents have refused collectively to maintain or enforce compliance with federal and state required transparency mandates.

47. Petitioners have brought this issue to the attention of Respondents, who have done absolutely nothing to address these errors ensuring future elections will suffer from the same deficiencies.

48. Furthermore, rather than alarmed by these apparent errors pursuant to prevailing election laws, Respondents instead have collectively ignored the issue of the unreliable election results therefore produced.

49. Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents have failed to adequately police and monitor problems with the voter rolls and failed to adequately fix voting registration errors within Georgia, despite being in the best position to ensure the reliability, integrity, and accuracy of Georgia's elections to ensure veracity of Georgia election results.

50. Petitioners have repeatedly made good faith and sincere efforts to negotiate and get Respondents to respond to their legitimate concerns.

51. Petitioners have repeatedly shown Respondents evidence of potential violations of election law, regarding the conduct of elections by local and state officials charged with administering elections, on behalf of all citizens in accordance with the law.

52. The risk of election subversion is indisputable, but the state of Georgia has denied Petitioners denied a fair hearing, despite the serious nature of Petitioners' findings calling into question the reliability, integrity and accuracy of prior federal elections administered by Georgia.

53. The prayer for relief seeks the protection of Petitioners' rights, as well as those of every voting citizen of Georgia, to have their vote fairly counted in an open and reliable election as such elections are defined according to law as outlined below.

54. Respondents have denied Petitioners' their right to a fair vote.

55. Furthermore, Respondents appear to have followed procedures that have obscured the ability to audit the 2022 general election to render the outcomes factually unknowable, at the time of certification.

56. Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents have violated multiple federal and state laws, or negligently allowed such violations to occur, while loudly proclaiming the infallibility of the state's election results.

57. Respondents insist that Petitioners have adequate voting rights, while simultaneously fighting from every conceivable angle to prevent Petitioners from attempting to protect those rights. Respondents' collective actions in refusing to address the problem extinguishes and undermines the very meaning of the right to vote in a fair democracy.

58. Respondents can and should be compelled to address compliance with existing election law, specifically: compelled to adequately investigate the issue, prosecute anyone in violation of federal and/or state law, and actively work to bring Georgia back into compliance with federal and state election law mandates so that Georgia's constitutionally enshrined voting rights are upheld and preserved.

59. The All-Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651 provides that “[t]he Supreme Court and all courts established by Act of Congress may issue all writs necessary or appropriate in the aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and principles of law.”

60. District Courts of the United States have original jurisdiction of any action in the nature of mandamus to compel an officer or employee of the United States or any agency thereof to perform a duty owed to the plaintiff. 28 U.S.C. § 1361.

Standing

79. United Sovereign Americans, Inc. is a non-profit corporation in the state of Missouri existing to advance election integrity in United States Federal elections administered by the several states.

80. Petitioner Mary Benefield is a candidate for Georgia's State Senate District 55. She has been registered to vote in Georgia since 1992. In 2020, someone attempt to steal Petitioner's vote by using false identification to effectuate an online voter registration address change and requesting an absentee ballot in her name. When Petitioner discovered the scheme after attempting to cast an early ballot, she complained to elections officials. However, Georgia's officials refused to show her the false identification provided by the person who attempted to steal her vote. See Exhibit "A" for Tennessee Star Article, "Voter Says Her Address Was Changed and Absentee Ballot was Requested to Steal Her Vote."

81. Petitioner Charlice Byrd is a current Georgia state representative seeking re-election in 2024.

82. Petitioner Lydia A.B. Davidson is a registered voter and citizen of Georgia.

83. Petitioner Deborah J. Davis is a registered voter and citizen of Georgia. She complained to Georgia's elections official about their violation of Georgia law that requires absentee ballots be processed and mailed by only a sworn Georgia absentee clerk and not unsworn third-party vendors such as Dominion. However, Georgia's officials refused to comport with Georgia law. See Exhibit "B" for documents regarding Petitioner Davis's complaints to authorities.

84. Petitioner David A. Cross is registered voter and citizen of Georgia. Petitioner has complained, and provided proof, to Georgia's elections officials that have overstated the vote tally, in Fulton and Gwinnett counties, in the 2020 election. He has further complained and provided proof to Georgia's elections officials that its electronic voter certification system does not in compliance with the law because its Dominion scanners were not certified by the United States Election Assistance Commission ("EAC") prior to purchase. See Exhibit “C” for documents regarding Petitioner Cross’s complaints to authorities.

85. Petitioner Mark Davis is a registered voter and citizen of Georgia. Petitioner is the president of Data Productions, Inc., and have been analyzing Georgia voter data for more than 30 years. Petitioner has served as an expert witness in voter at least five voter disputes. 87. Petitioners Frank H. Schneider is a registered voter and citizen of Georgia.

88. Despite Petitioners’ putting the state of Georgia on notice of its non-compliance with state and federal election laws, Georgia’s officials have not made any efforts to rectify its non-compliance.

89. United Sovereign Americans, a non-partisan, non-profit organization organized in the state of Georgia uncovered overwhelming evidence of registration issues in the 2022 elections. In particular, it discovered that for the 2022 election:

- a. 77,190 registrations were illegal duplicates;
- b. 61,251 registrations had invalid addresses;
- c. 849 registrations were age discrepant—over 105 or under 17;
- d. 28,335 registrations were backdated;
- e. 47 registrations had invalid dates;
- f. 205 registrations had invalid names;
- g. 201,195 registrations were on Sunday;

- h. 82,763 registrations were on January 1;
- i. 92,024 registrations were inactive and no contact for eight years;

See Exhibit “F” for document from USA regarding election integrity.

90. Petitioners have been and are currently harmed by Georgia’s voting systems currently and formerly in use in the state and federal elections. Respondents have allowed, and continue to allow, violations of federal election laws, Georgia election laws, the United States Constitution, and federal civil rights laws pertaining to voter rights.

91. The violations of the state of Georgia election laws, federal election laws, the U.S. Constitution, and federal civil rights laws pertaining to voter registration rolls, transparency, compliance, and certification of the voting systems, and the serious issues hereinafter discussed with the overall voting systems exemplify their injury.

92. The injury to Petitioners and all Georgia voters would cease to exist or be greatly relieved if the Court grants Petitioners’ requested relief.

93. The Supreme Court has indicated that if one party to a lawsuit has standing, other entities can join as parties without having to independently satisfy the demands of Article III, provided those parties do not seek a distinct form of relief from the party with standing. See, Horne v. Flores, 557 U.S. 433, 446-47 (2009).

94. United Sovereign Americans is not seeking a distinct form of relief from the other Petitioners and therefore has standing.

Background

A. THE CONSTITUTIONALLY PROTECTED RIGHT TO VOTE

95. The United States Constitution grants the people the right to choose representatives to the people of several states, according to the voting eligibility requirements of the state. U.S. Const. art. 1, § 2.

96. The 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution, Section 1, defines a “citizen” as all people born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

97. The 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution, Section 2, protects eligible citizen voters against denial or abridgment of their vote.

98. "The very essence of civil liberty certainly consists in the right of every individual to claim the protection of the laws, whenever he receives an injury." Marbury v. Madison, 1 Cranch 137, 5 U.S., 137, 163 (1803).

99. Federal courts regard the right to vote in a fairly conducted election as a constitutionally protected feature of United States citizenship. Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533, 554-55 (1964).

100. After the 2020 Presidential Election, pervasive discussion reported on by the media focused on the validity of the presidential election results within the state of Georgia.

101. In addition to this civil action, discussions and litigation in other states around the Nation, centered on whether raw vote totals were accurate, with particular attention focused on the question: if all ballots in dispute were decided, hypothetically, in the favor of one candidate for president over the other, would that have changed the outcome of the election in that state?

102. Questions concerned whether the recorded vote totals, viewed in the light most favorable to the losing candidate in any given state, could have affected the awarding of electoral votes from said state, which, in turn, might have affected the determination of the "winner" of the elections for president and vice-president in the Electoral College.

103. The media widely reported that no court ruled that, even if all disputed ballots were assumed to have been found to be favorable to the Republican Candidate during the 2020 presidential election, the outcome in any disputed state would not have been affected. Furthermore, there was insufficient evidence produced such that a court could find that the outcome of the election in any disputed state was unreliable.

104. Petitioners do not seek to revisit the results of the 2020 presidential election, nor to re-examine the conclusions drawn by the various courts and media outlets as summarized above.

105. Petitioners posit a different question than that noted above: How many disputed ballots found to be improperly cast in any given federal election may occur before the reliability and integrity of the entire election becomes suspect? Petitioners respectfully represent that Congress has answered this very question as outlined further below and Congress' answer to this question forms much of the basis of the instant Petition.

106. In In re: Coy, 127 U.S. 731 (1888), the United States Supreme Court held that Congress had authority under the Constitution's Necessary and Proper Clause to regulate any activity during a mixed federal/state election that exposed the federal election to potential harm, whether that harm materialized or not. Coy is still good law. See, United States v. Slone, 411 F.3d 643, 647 (6th Cir. 2005); United States v. Mason, 673 F.2d 737, 739 (4th Cir. 1982); United States v. Malmay, 671 F.2d 869, 874–75 (5th Cir. 1982); Ex parte Yarborough, 110 U.S. 651 (1884); Ex parte Siebold, 100 U.S. 371 (1880).

107. In Oregon v. Mitchell, the Supreme Court stated:

The right to vote is, of course, different in one respect from the other rights in the economic, social, or political field which, as indicated in the Appendix to this opinion, are under the Equal Protection Clause. The right to vote is a civil right deeply embedded in the Constitution. Article I, § 2, provides that the House is composed of members 'chosen . . . by the People' and the electors 'shall have the Qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.' The Seventeenth Amendment states that Senators shall be 'elected by the people.' The Fifteenth Amendment speaks of the 'right of citizens of the United States to vote' -- not only in federal but in state elections.

[T]he right to vote freely for the candidate of one's choice is of the essence of a democratic society, and any restrictions on that right strike at the heart of representative government. This ‘right to choose, secured by the Constitution,’ United States v. Classic, 313 U.S. 299, is a civil right of the highest order. Voting concerns ‘political’ matters; but the right is not ‘political’ in the constitutional sense. Interference with it has given rise to a long and consistent line of decisions by the Court; and the claim has always been upheld as justiciable.

Mitchell, 400 U.S. 112, 138-39 (1970).

108. Justice Harlan also stated the following in his concurring opinion:

[A]s the right in the people of each State to a republican government and to choose their Representatives in Congress is of the guarantees of the Constitution, by this amendment a remedy might be given directly for a case supposed by Madison, where treason might change a State government from a republican to a despotic government, and thereby deny suffrage to the people.

Mitchell, 400 U.S. at 185 (Harlan, J., concurring in part).

109. The Supreme Court further stated: “we are cautioned about the dangers of entering into political thickets and mathematical quagmires. Our answer is this: a denial of constitutionally protected rights demands judicial protection; our oath and our office require no less of us.” Reynolds v Sims, 377 U.S. 533, 566 (1964).

110. “Every voter in a federal . . . election . . . whether he votes for a candidate with little chance of winning or for one with little chance of losing, has a right under the Constitution to have his vote fairly counted, without its being distorted by fraudulently cast votes.” Anderson v. United States, 417 U.S. 211, 227 (1974) (emphasis added).

B. NATIONAL VOTER REGISTRATION ACT (“NVRA”)

111. The National Voter Registration Act (“NVRA”) was passed for the purpose of ensuring accurate and current voter registration rolls to enhance the integrity of elections.

112. In so doing, Congress found that: (1) the right of citizens of the United States to vote is a fundamental right; (2) it is the duty of the Federal, State, and local governments to promote the exercise of that right; and (3) discriminatory and unfair registration laws and procedures can have a direct and damaging effect on voter participation in elections for Federal office and disproportionately harm voter participation by various groups, including racial minorities. 52 U.S.C. § 20501.

113. The NVRA exists in part to “protect the integrity of the electoral process” and “to ensure that accurate and current voter registration rolls are maintained.” 52 U.S.C. § 20501.

114. The NVRA requires states to “conduct a general program that makes a reasonable effort to remove the names of ineligible voters from the official lists of eligible voters” by reason of death or change of address. 52 U.S.C. § 20507(a)(4).

115. Similarly, the U.S. Election Assistance Commission (“EAC”) is required by law to report to Congress its findings related to state voter registration practices. 52 U.S.C. § 20508(a)(3).

116. Federal regulations require states to provide data to the EAC for use in their reports, including the numbers of active voters, and the numbers of registered voters removed from the rolls for any reason. 11 C.F.R. § 9428.7(b)(1), (2), (5).

117. The NVRA requires the States to complete any program the purpose of which is to remove ineligible voters from the official lists of eligible voters not later than ninety (90) days prior to an election.

118. NVRA has two (2) methods of enforcement. First, the Attorney General can petition the court for declaratory and injunctive relief. Second, a private citizen can pursue a cause of action with certain requirements as follows. In a private action, notice is required, in that a person must notify the chief election official of the State involved. If the violation is not corrected within 90 days of receipt of the notice or within 20 days after receipt of the notice, if the violation occurred within 120 days before the date of an election for office, the aggrieved person may bring a civil action in an appropriate district court seeking relief. In the alternative, if the violation occurs 30 days before the date of an election for federal office, no notice is required.

119. Although the NVRA authorizes a private cause of action in the form of declaratory or injunctive relief, this “remedy” is largely toothless. Any Court in the United States would have great reluctance to formally order election officials to correct the NVRA error and/or decertify an election so close in time to an actual election or just after certification.

120. Additionally, to what extent the NVRA requires a hypothetical plaintiff to have suffered injury is not clear – standing could be a troublesome burden to prove particularly if the harm, such as voter fraud and dilution, has been committed on a class people, the electors as a whole, rather than on an individual person.

121. Furthermore, a Court could attempt to use the doctrine of laches to avoid the distasteful task of questioning election officials, inquiring into potentially fraudulent elections, and inaccurate voting rolls, despite a hypothetical plaintiff being in full compliance with the private NVRA notice requirements.

122. Congress’s power to pass the NVRA comes from Article I, Section 8, Clause 18 of the United States Constitution, the Necessary and Proper Clause, making accurate voter rolls a requirement to uphold the right of the people to choose their representatives.

C. HELP AMERICA VOTE ACT (“HAVA”)

123. The Help America Vote Act (“HAVA”) exists in part to “establish minimum election administration standards for States and units of local government with responsibility for the administration of Federal elections, and other purposes.” H.R. 3295 (2002).

124. HAVA requires that voter roll databases contain only the registrations of qualified citizen voters residing in that state. 52 U.S.C.A. § 21083(a).

125. HAVA defines a voting system as “the total combination of mechanical, electromechanical, or electronic equipment (including software, firmware, and documentation required to program, control, and support the equipment) that is used to define ballots; to cast and count votes; to report or display election results; and to maintain and produce any audit trail information.” 52 U.S.C.A. § 21081(b).

126. The purpose of any voting system is to accurately record, store, consolidate, and report the specific selections, and absence of selections, made by the voter as well as to accurately measure the intent of the total body of eligible voters that voted.

127. Petitioners believe and therefore aver the ability to “cast and count votes” begins with establishing eligibility and registering only qualified citizens into voter registration databases, thus assuring that all ballots granted, cast, and counted, are lawful.

128. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that inaccurate voter rolls have significant negative consequences in elections.

129. Per HAVA, in any given state, each qualified voter is granted a unique statewide identifier in a database, which averts the risk of double-voting or extra ballots being cast in the name of one individual voter.

130. HAVA furthermore requires that federal elections adhere to an accuracy standard established by the FEC through Section 3.2.1 of its Voting System Standards (2002), which states in relevant part that error rates are “...set at a sufficiently stringent level such that the likelihood of voting system errors affecting the outcome of an election is exceptionally remote even in the closest of elections.” United States (2002) U.S. Federal Election Commission FEC. United States [Web Archive] Retrieved from the Election Assistance Commission, https://www.eac.gov/sites/default/files/eac_assets/1/28/Voting_System_Standards_Volume_I.pdf (emphasis added).

131. Accuracy in a voting system is defined as the ability of the system to capture the intent of voters without error. United States. (2002) U.S. Federal Election Commission FEC. United States [Web Archive] Retrieved from the Election Assistance Commission, https://www.eac.gov/sites/default/files/eac_assets/1/28/Voting_System_Standards_Volume_I.pdf.

132. Section 301 of HAVA regarding “Voting System Standards,” states that the “error rate of [a] voting system in counting ballots (determined by taking into account only those errors which are attributable to the voting system and not attributable to an act of the voter) shall comply with the error rate standards established under section 3.2.1 of the voting systems standards issued by the Federal Election Commission.”

52 U.S.C.A. § 21081(a)(5).

133. Petitioners ask this Court to recall that, the FEC voting systems standards of section 3.2.1 establish that “the system shall achieve a target error rate of no more than one in 10,000,000 ballot positions, with a maximum acceptable error rate in the test process of one in 500,000 ballot positions.” See, supra. at 24 (emphasis added).

134. The Voluntary Voting System Guidelines (“VVSG”), Version 1.1, Section 4.1.1 – Accuracy Requirements state, in part, “[a]ll systems shall achieve a report total error rate of no more than one in 125,000.” Furthermore, “[t]he benchmark of one in 125,000 is derived from the ‘maximum acceptable error rate’ used as the lower test benchmark in the 2005 Voluntary Voting System Guidelines Version 1.0. That benchmark was defined as a ballot position error rate of one in 500,000. The benchmark of one in 125,000 is expressed in terms of votes, however, it is consistent with the previous benchmark that the estimated ratio of votes to ballot positions is ¼.” United States (2015) U.S. Election Assistance Commission. United States [Web Archive] Retrieved from the Election Assistance Commission, https://www.eac.gov/sites/default/files/eac_assets/1/28/VVSG.1.1.VOL.1.FINAL1.pdf.⁴

135. HAVA also requires that states who receive payments for the administration of elections must use the funds “in a manner consistent with each of the laws described in Section 21145 . . . and the proposed uses are not inconsistent with the requirements of Title III.” 52 U.S.C. § 20971(c).

136. A private cause of action may exist for HAVA through 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Colon-Marreror v. Velez, 813 F.3d 1, 22 (1st Cir. 2016) (finding a private action under §1983 for HAVA violations because the provision provided enforceable voting rights and imposes binding obligations on state officials).

137. Section 1983 provides a mechanism for enforcing individual rights secured elsewhere as in rights independently secured by the Constitution and laws of the United States. Gonzaga University v. Doe, 536 U.S. 273, 284-85 (2002). Importantly, a §1983 plaintiff must assert a violation of a federal right, not just a law. Blessing v. Freestone, 520 U.S. 329, 340 (1997).

138. A private cause of action pursuant to §1983 can be found for violations of HAVA, which requires voting systems to provide the voter with the opportunity to change the ballot or correct any apparent error before the ballot is cast and counted. 52 USC 21081(a)(1)(A)(ii). The violation could be produced by a configuration of the voting machines.

139. Section 1983 is currently the only mechanism where HAVA violations will receive any meaningful private review, yet it has proven thus far to be ineffectual at providing any real remedy for HAVA violations.

140. Congress's power to pass the HAVA comes from Article I, Section 8, Clause 18 of the United States Constitution, the Necessary and Proper Clause, making accurate voting systems a requirement to uphold the right of the people to choose their representatives.

GEORGIA ELECTION CODE

141. Under Georgia law, “[t]he Secretary of State, as the chief election official designated under the federal Help America Vote Act of 2002, shall be responsible for coordinating the obligations of the state under the federal Help America Vote Act of 2002.” O.C.G. § 21-2-50.2(a).

142. Per O.C.G. §21-2-50, the Secretary is required to, among other things, perform the following functions:

- a. To determine the forms of nomination petitions, ballots, and other forms the Secretary of State is required to determine under this chapter;
- b. To receive registration statements from political parties and bodies and to determine their sufficiency prior to filing, in accordance with this chapter;
- c. To receive and determine the sufficiency of nomination petitions of candidates filing notice of their candidacy with the Secretary of State in accordance with this chapter;

- d. To certify to the proper superintendent official lists of all the political party candidates who have been certified to the Secretary of State as qualified candidates;
- e. To furnish to the proper superintendent all blank forms, including tally and return sheets, numbered lists of voters, cards of instructions, notices of penalties, instructions for marking ballots, tally sheets;
- f. To receive from the superintendent the returns of primaries and elections and to canvass and compute the votes cast for candidates and upon questions;
- g. To furnish upon request a certified copy of any document in the Secretary of State's custody by virtue of this chapter and to fix and charge a fee to cover the cost of furnishing same;
- h. To perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law;
- i. To determine and approve the form of ballots for use in special elections;
- j. To prepare and provide a notice to all candidates for federal or state office advising such candidates of such information, to include requirements of this chapter, as may, in the discretion of the Secretary of State, be conducive to the fair, legal, and orderly conduct of primaries and elections;
- k. To conduct training sessions at such places as the Secretary of State deems appropriate in each year for the training of registrars and superintendents of elections;
- l. To prepare and publish, in the manner provided in this chapter, all notices and advertisements in connection with the conduct of elections which may be required by law;
- m. To prepare and furnish information for citizens on voter registration and voting;
- n. To maintain the official list of registered voters for this state and the list of inactive voters required by this chapter; and
- o. To develop, program, build, and review ballots for use by counties and municipalities on voting systems in use in the state.

results produced by Georgia's voting system as to whether their respective vote has been properly registered and counted.

144. Georgia's Secretary of State is required to promulgate regulations necessary to establish, implement, and administer NVRA and HAVA. O.C.G. § § 21-2-50, 21-2-210.

145. The election code describes numerous criminal penalties for failing to adhere to basic code guidelines:

- a. False statements. O.C.G. § 21-2-572.
- b. False registration. O.G.C. § 21-2-561.
- c. Fraudulent entries; unlawful alteration or destruction of entries; unlawful removal of documents; refusal of to deliver documents. O.C.G. § 21-2-562.
- d. Improper signing or altering of nomination petitions. O.C.G. § 21-2-563.
- e. Voting by unqualified elector or giving false information. O.C.G § 21-2-571.
- f. Giving or receiving, offering to give or receive money or gifts for votes. O.C.G. § 21-2-570.
- g. Solicitation to commit voter fraud. O.C.G. § 21-2- 604.
- h. Tampering with, damaging, improper preparation of, or prevention of proper operation of voting machines or electronic ballot markers or tabulating machines. O.C.G. § 21-2-580.
- i. Poll officer permitting unregistered or unqualified persons to vote; refusing to permit registered and qualified persons to vote; unlawful rendering of assistance. O.C.G. § 21-2-590.
- j. Refusal or failure of manager to administer oath to poll officer; poll officer acting without being sworn; giving of false certification as to swearing of poll officer. O.C.G. § 21-2-584.
- k. Refusal by superintendent or his or her employee to permit public inspection of documents; removal, destruction, or alteration of documents. O.C.G. § 21-2-585.

- l. Fraud by poll officers. O.C.G. § 21-2-587 .
- m. Unauthorized making or possession of voting machine key. O.G.C. § 21-2-581.
- n. Conspiracy to commit election fraud. O.C.G. § 21-2-603.
- o. Offenses by printers of ballots. O.G.C. § 21-2-594.
- p. Failure of public or political officer to perform duty. O.C.G. § 21-2-596.

146. Importantly, Georgia's Secretary of State has the authority to take any action including the authority to audit registration records of a county commission. O.C.G. § 21-2-50.2.

147. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the state of Georgia cannot demonstrate effective control over voter eligibility in conformity with federal or state requirements, and the state of Georgia has implemented a system that does not guarantee accuracy or compliance with legal mandates requiring the state to ensure that only eligible voters may register and vote.

D. ELECTION FRAUD CONGRESS SOUGHT TO GUARD AGAINST

148. Petitioners do not accuse any person or entity of engaging in election fraud in 2022, nor propose any person or entity will engage in such fraud in 2024 or in subsequent federal elections in Georgia. Petitioners' purpose in describing types of voter fraud is to set forth the harms Congress sought to avoid by implementation of HAVA and NVRA as well as the various statutes passed by the Georgia General Assembly and cited above.

149. Petitioners believe and therefore aver election fraud can occur in multiple diverse ways, not all of which are individualized to a specific actor.

150. Petitioners believe and therefore aver over the past fifty years, Congress has enacted criminal laws with broad jurisdictional basis to combat false voter registrations, vote- buying, multiple-voting, and fraudulent voting in elections in which a federal candidate is on the ballot. See, 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c), 10307(e), 20511.

151. The federal jurisdictional predicate underlying these statutes is satisfied as long as either the name of a federal candidate is on the ballot, or the fraud involves corruption of the voter registration process in a state where one registers to vote simultaneously for federal as well as other offices. Slone, 411 F.3d at 647–48; United States v. McCranie, 169 F.3d 723, 727 (11th Cir. 1999).

152. Voting in federal elections for individuals who do not personally participate in, and assent to, the voting act attributed to them, or impersonating voters, or casting ballots in the names of voters who do not vote in federal elections, can constitute prosecutable election fraud. See, 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c); 10307(e); 20511(2).

153. It is possible for election officials acting “under color of law” to commit election fraud by performing acts such as diluting ballots with invalid ones (ballot stuffing), rendering false tabulations of votes, or preventing valid voter registrations or votes from being given effect in any election, federal or non-federal (18 U.S.C. §§ 241, 242), as well as in elections in which federal candidates are on the ballot. See 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c), 10307(e), 20511(2).⁵

154. An individual commits election fraud by submitting fictitious names to election officers for inclusion on voter registration rolls, thereby qualifying the fictitious name to vote in federal elections. 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c), 20511(2).

155. An individual commits election fraud by knowingly procuring eligibility to vote for federal office by people who are not entitled to vote under applicable state law and/or people who are not United States Citizens. 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c), 20511(2); 18 U.S.C. §§ 1015(f).

156. An individual who makes a false claim of United States citizenship to register to vote commits election fraud. 18 U.S.C. § 1015(f); 18 U.S.C. § 911.

157. A person who provides false information concerning a person’s name, address, or period of residence in a voting district to establish voting eligibility commits election fraud. 52 U.S.C. §§ 10307(c), 20511(2).

158. Fraud can occur where an individual causes the production of voter registrations that qualify alleged voters to vote for federal candidates, where that individual knows the registrations are materially defective under applicable state law. 52 U.S.C. § 20511(2)

159. However, election fraud need not involve the participation of individual voters.

160. Election fraud can occur where an individual or organization places fictitious names on voter rolls (allowing for fraudulent ballots which can later be used to stuff the ballot box, supra), casting fake ballots in the names of people who did not vote, obtaining and marking absentee ballots without the input of the voter involved, and falsifying vote tallies.

161. When the federal government seeks to maintain the integrity of elections, it does so for specific federal interests inter alia: (1) the protection of the voting rights of racial, ethnic, or language minorities, a specific constitutional right; (2) the registration of voters to vote in federal elections; (3) the standardization and procurement of voting equipment purchased with federal funds; (4) the protection of the federal election process against corruption; (5) the protection of the voting process from corruption accomplished under color of law; and (6) the oversight of non-citizen and other voting by persons ineligible to vote under applicable state law. Richard C. Pilger, Federal Prosecution of Election Offenses, p. 30, 8th Edition (2017).

162. Congress has enacted a litany of specific crimes that can be prosecuted under a general definition as “election fraud”:

- a. Conspiracy Against Rights: 18 U.S.C. § 241. See United States v. Saylor, 322 U.S. 385 (1944) (stuffing a ballot box with forged ballots); United States v. Classic, 313 U.S. 299 (1941) (preventing the official count of ballots in primary elections); United States v. Townsley, 843 F.2d 1070, 1073–75 (8th Cir. 1988) (destroying ballots); United States v. Morado, 454 F.2d 167, 171 (5th Cir. 1972) (casting absentee ballots in elderly or handicapped peoples' names); Crolich v. United States, 196 F.2d 879, 879 (5th Cir. 1952) (impersonating qualified voters); United States v. Colvin, 353 F.3d 569, 576 (7th Cir. 2003) (conspiracy need not be successful nor need there be an overt act).

- b. Deprivation of Rights under Color of Law: 18 U.S.C. § 242. See United States v. Price, 383 U.S. 787 (1966) (acted jointly with state agents); Williams v. United States, 341 U.S. 97 (1951) (actions clothed under Color of State Law).
- c. False Information in, and Payments for, Registering and Voting: 52 U.S.C. § 10307(c).⁶
- d. Voting More than Once: 52 U.S.C. § 10307(e).
- e. Fraudulent Registration or Voting: 52 U.S.C. § 20511(2).
- f. False claims to Register or Vote: 18 U.S.C. § 1015(f).
- g. "Cost-of-Election" theory: 18 U.S.C. § 1341.
- h. Improper Retention of Federal Election Returns: 52 U.S.C. § 20701.

163. In short, election fraud can constitute numerous different actions or inactions, and federal and state governments of the United States have an interest in guarding the integrity of elections, and ensuring election fraud is stopped, then prosecuted appropriately.

Facts and Summary of the Issues

164. Petitioner United Sovereign Americans received Georgia's voter registration data from the 2022 general election – the data contained millions of entries of voter registration data.

165. Thereafter, expert data analysts acting on behalf of Petitioner United Sovereign Americans performed a series of SQL database queries on the data to extrapolate and refine information about voter registrations in Georgia. See Exhibit "G" for a copy of the SQL Database Queries.

166. Thereafter, Petitioner United Sovereign Americans thoroughly reviewed the

167. United Sovereign Americans' SQL database queries revealed hundreds of thousands of voter registration apparent errors in the state of Georgia. See Infra.

168. The results from the SQL database queries allowed Petitioners' experts to produce a "Scorecard" reflecting Georgia's voter registration data detailing the hundreds of thousands of apparent errors contained within that registration data. See Exhibit "G" for a copy of United Sovereign American's Georgia 2022 General Election Validity Scorecard.

169. In addition, the results from the SQL Database Queries of Georgia's voter registration data allowed Petitioners' experts to compile a General Election Validity Reconciliation. See Exhibit "E" for a copy of United Sovereign American's Georgia 2022 General Election Validity Reconciliation.

170. The results from the SQL Database Queries of Georgia's voter registration data also revealed that apparent errors were not uniform across Georgia – some counties had far more registration apparent errors than others. See Exhibit "F" for a copy of United Sovereign American's Georgia 2022 General Election county-by-county January 1st registration analysis.

171. According to the data provided to Petitioner United Sovereign America for the 2022 election, Georgia had 6,953,485 voter registrations.

A. VOTER REGISTRATION ROLL INACCURACY

172. Expert analysis by Petitioner United Sovereign Americans of the official Georgia State Voter Registration Data for the 2022 election revealed that, out of 6,953,485 voter registrations, there was a total of 543,859 voter registration violations including:

- 77,190 Illegal duplicates, where the same voter has multiple registrations; 61,251
- Invalid addresses found;
- 92,024 Inactive and no contact for 8+ years;
- 28,335 Backdated registrations;
- 47 Invalid registration date;

633,508 Illegal or invalid registration changes 849 Age
discrepant registrants⁷
201,195 Sunday registrations;
82,763 January 1 registrations.

See, Exhibit “D” for a copy of United Sovereign American’s Georgia 2022 General Election Validity Scorecard.

173. This data shows that in 2022 the voter rolls in Georgia were not accurate and current as required by NVRA, HAVA, nor in conformity with specific Georgia laws pertaining to voter registration. 52 U.S.C.A. § 20501(b)(4); 52 U.S.C.A. § 21081; and O.G.C. § 21-2-50.2.

174. Thus far, Petitioners have exhausted every remedy known to them in advance of the 2024 general election to have these issues corrected. Petitioners continued in 2024 to seek redress and repair for these egregious violations through democratic means. See Exhibit A.

175. Respondents have dismissed, and continue to dismiss, Petitioners’ concerns and, based on information and belief, did so without any meaningful review, action, or response.

176. Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents intend to administer and ultimately certify Georgia’s 2024 general election (involving both state and federal contests) using the same inaccurate and flawed data and conditions.

B. VOTES FROM INELIGIBLE VOTERS

177. Expert analysis on behalf of Petitioner United Sovereign Americans of the official Georgia State Voter Registration Data for the 2022 election revealed that, out of the votes cast in the 2022 general election, there were a total of 251,885 evident voting violations, and 239,178 unique votes impacted by apparent voting violations.⁸ These violations were in the form of:

⁷Registrants over the age one hundred five (105) or under the age of seventeen (17).

⁸ Some registered voters have more than one violation. The number of unique voters indicates how many individual registrations have apparent errors – whether it be one or multiple apparent errors.

36,327 Illegal Duplicates, where the same voter has multiple registrations

11,269 Invalid address

540 Age-discrepant registrations (over 105 or under 18)

7,305 Backdated registrations

20 registrations with invalid dates

58 registrations with invalid names

110,729 Sunday registrations

71,057 January 1 registrations

181 Inactive and no contact for 8+ years Registration Changes

2,207 Age Discrepant Registrants

14,399 Registration cutoff date (10/10/2002) and still voted

See, Exhibit “D” for a copy of Petitioner United Sovereign American’s Georgia 2022 General Election Validity Scorecard.

178. Petitioners believe and therefore aver this data shows that in 2022 the voter rolls in Georgia are not accurate and current as required by the NVRA, HAVA, and specific Georgia laws pertaining to voter registration. 52 U.S.C.A. § 20501(b)(4); 52 U.S.C.A. § 21081; and O.G.C. § 21-2-50.2.

179. Thus far, Petitioners have exhausted every remedy known to them in advance of the 2024 general election to have these issues, and all issues raised below, addressed and remedied. Petitioners continued in 2024 to seek redress and repair for these egregious violations through democratic means.

180. Respondents have ignored or dismissed, and continue to ignore or dismiss, these concerns without apparent meaningful review, action, or response, and furthermore Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents intend to administer and certify Georgia’s 2024 general election (involving both state and federal contests) under the same inaccurate and flawed conditions as that have utilized previously in conducting Georgia’s combined federal and state elections.

C. ERROR RATES IN 2022 COMPARED TO RATES PERMITTED BY FEDERAL LAW

181. Georgia's voting systems are subject to the permissible error rates set forth by Congress in HAVA and further elucidated in FEC Voting System Standards 3.2.1 and explained in the EAC's VVSG. Supra.

182. The maximum number of apparent voting system errors permissible in counting votes in the 2022 Georgia General Election using the calculations set forth by the Federal Election Commission upon mandate by Congress was thirty-two (32) errors at most allowed. The total number of Unique Ballots impacted by voting system errors in the Georgia General Election, however, was 239,178 apparent errors. See Exhibit "D."

183. Even accounting for the possibility that of the 251,885 apparent errors, many were not true errors, Petitioners believe and therefore aver, that Georgia cannot reduce that number to thirty-two (32) or less.

184. Under HAVA, an error rate of no more than one in 125,000 is permissible before the results of the entire election becomes suspect, and the integrity and reliability of the election compromised. As mentioned above, this figure is calculated by dividing the total number of Georgia votes in a given election by 125,000, to arrive at the number of permissible errors in any given election in order to create the error rate of no more than one in 125,000 mandated by the VVSG.

185. For the 2022 General Election this is 3,959,230 (votes cast) divided by 125,000 leaves thirty-two (32) rounded up as the maximum errors permitted, meaning that in order for the election to be considered valid, there cannot have been more than 32 voting system apparent errors in the entire ballot tabulation for all ballots cast in that election in Georgia.

186. However, in the 2022 Georgia General Election, the number of voting system apparent errors in counting ballots for the 2022 general election was 251,885, a figure dramatically exceeding the maximum allowable apparent error rate of thirty-two (32).

187. Because the voting system apparent error rate for the 2022 Georgia General Election was far above the maximum allowable error rates, Petitioners believe and therefore aver the reliability and credibility of the 2022 results are cast into doubt as a matter of law.

VOTER-TO-VOTE DEFICIT

188. The official canvas for the 2022 Georgia Election was 3,959,230 ballots cast yet the data shows there exist 3,924,926 total votes counted – a discrepancy of 34,3043 votes. See Exhibit “E.”

189. This discrepancy can best be defined as a Voter-to-Vote deficit.

190. Additionally, the official canvas for the 2022 Georgia Election was 3,924,926 votes (ballots counted) yet there exist only 3,959,230 voters who actually voted according to the data provided – a discrepancy of 34,304 votes that are completely unaccounted for and cannot be explained—a number far in excess of thirty-two (32) and indisputably each constitutes an “error.”

191. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the 34,304 fewer votes counted than voters who voted means that either tabulators overcounted votes statewide, or there is an alternative source of the data discrepancy.⁹

D. GEORGIA’S 2022 GENERAL ELECTION VALIDITY

192. For Georgia’s 2022 General Election, out of the 6,953,485 total registrations, of which Petitioners believe and therefore aver, there were only 6,416,495 valid registrations, 279,874 uncertain/illogical/invalid registrations, 257,116 registrations which violated election laws, and zero (0) “Deadwood” registrations.¹⁰

193. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that of the people holding the 6,416,495 valid registrations, 3,717,945 votes were counted in the 2022 General Election.

194. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that of the identified 279,874

⁹ Petitioners accuse no one of engaging in fraud or deceit. Petitioners merely point out the discrepancy, which could be due to unintentional tabulator error, some fraud of unknown origin, a combination of both, or even fraud by the tabulators themselves. The discrepancy occurred in 2022 for an unknown reason. It is the deficit itself, regardless of the cause, which demonstrates an error rate in excess of that permitted by HAVA calling into question the integrity of the election. Petitioners propose to ask this Court to order Respondents to ascertain why the deficit occurred in 2022, ensure that a similar deficit does not re-occur in 2024, and in all federal elections thereafter in the future.

uncertain/illogical/invalid registrations, 178,141 people voted and had their votes counted in the 2022 General Election.

195. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that of the 257,116 registrations that violated election laws, 63,144 people holding such registrations cast votes that were counted in the 2022 General Election.

196. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the registration error rate in Georgia for the 2022 General Election was seven and seven hundredths (7.7%) of the total registrations on the Georgia's voter rolls. This figure is arrived at by taking 279,874 uncertain/illogical/invalid registrations, plus 257,116 registrations which violated election laws, as a percentage of 6,953,485 total registrations.

197. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the voter system error rate in Georgia for the 2022 General Election was six and one hundredth (6.1%), arrived at by taking 178,141 votes counted from uncertain/illogical/invalid registrations, plus 63,144 votes counted from illegal registrations, as a percentage of 3,959,230 votes cast.

198. In 62 out of 152 counties in the state of Georgia, January 1st registrants had an 80% or greater turnout rate (including as high as 100%). The average turnout rate for all other registration dates statewide is 51%. In Chatham Co (Savannah), January 1st registrations cast 18,382 votes. All other registration dates cast 88,153 votes. So, 17% of all votes cast came from Jan 1st registrants. As far as turnout rate comparison, this represents an 86% turnout of Jan 1st registrants, and a 42% turnout of all other dates. See Exhibit F.

199. Per HAVA and the FEC, the legal standard of allowable registration errors for a federal election is 0.0008% (or 1 out of 125,000) yet the voter system error rate in Georgia's 2022 combined state and Federal General Election was 6.1%.

Requested Relief

ALL WRITS ACT RELIEF – 28 U.S.C. § 1651

200. Petitioners incorporate the previous paragraphs by reference as if set forth at length here.

201. Petitioners are not seeking to undermine official elections results previously certified.

Petitioners have cited issues in prior Georgia federal elections to add weight to Petitioners' belief that absent intervention by this Honorable Court, Respondents will permit the same apparent errors to occur in the 2024 General Election in Georgia, and in all following federal elections in Georgia.

202. Petitioners seek redress from the constitutional harm brought upon them, and the Georgia electorate at large, by Respondents failure to comply with federal and state election law.

203. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Respondents have done nothing or an inadequate job at addressing the issues presented in this Petition – particularly to address the inaccurate and likely fraudulent voter rolls and voter systems used in federal elections conducted by state authorities.

204. Respondents' inaction and/or failure to act compels Petitioners to ask that the Court to issue a Writ of Mandamus requiring Respondents to comply with the two federal statutes at issue (the NVRA and the HAVA) along with the Georgia Election Code, O.G.C. § 21-2-50.2, while giving Respondents a reasonable time within which to bring Georgia into compliance in time for the 2024 General Election and all federal elections conducted by the state of Georgia going forward while providing relief to 2024 voters if bringing the state of Georgia into compliance in time is impossible upon showing by Respondents.

205. Specifically, Petitioners respectfully seek that the Court order Respondents take steps, both short term and long term, to ensure the apparent errors made during the 2022 elections do not recur and to bring Georgia into compliance with HAVA's specific mandate of no greater than 1 voting error out of 125,000 votes.

206. This Honorable Court is authorized to issue a writ of mandamus under "The All- Writs Act," 28 U.S.C. § 1651 granting the power to United States Federal Courts to "issue all writs necessary or appropriate in the aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and principles of law."

207. A writ of mandamus under 28 USC § 1651 is typically used to fill gaps in the law, and the Supreme Court has stated that The All-Writs Act is a "legislatively approved source of procedural instruments designed to achieve 'the rational ends of the law.'" Harris v. Nelson, 394 U.S. 286 (1969) (All Writs Act mandamus properly used to conduct factual inquiries).

208. A writ of mandamus is warranted where "(1) no other adequate means exist to attain the relief, (2) the party's right to issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable, and (3) the writ is appropriate under the circumstances." Hollingsworth v. Perry, 558 U.S. 183, 190 (2010) (quoting Cheney v. United States Dist. Ct., 542 U.S. 367, 380–81 (2004) (stay granted where district court likely did not follow federal law)).

209. A writ of mandamus is appropriate and necessary to vindicate the rights of citizens when a governmental agency or official has refused to perform a ministerial duty that the petitioner has established has a clear legal right to have the governmental agency or official, in this case Respondents, perform.

210. A federal court may use all auxiliary writs as aids when it is "calculated in [the court's] sound judgment to achieve the ends of justice entrusted to it." Adams v. United States, 317 U.S. 269, 273 (1942) (writ of habeas corpus is available to the circuit courts of appeals).

211. A "ministerial action" is a duty in a particular situation so plainly prescribed as to be free from doubt and equivalent to a positive command. Wilbur v. United States, 281 U.S. 206, 218 (1930); see also Will v. United States, 389 U.S. 90 (1967).

212. "Mandamus is employed to compel the performance, when refused, of a ministerial duty . . . [i]t also is employed to compel action, when refused, in matters involving judgment and discretion, but not to direct the exercise of judgment or discretion in a particular way nor to direct the retraction or reversal of action already taken in the exercise of either." Wilbur v. United States, 281 U.S. 206, 218 (1930). See also Decatur v. Paulding, 39 U.S. 497, 514-17 (1840) (Secretary of the Navy's duty to approve of pensions was discretionary, and therefore, not ministerial); Kendall v. United States, 37 U.S. 524 (1838) (Postmaster General had a ministerial duty to make entries); Work v. Rives, 267 U.S. 175, 177 (1925).

213. Instantly, Petitioners have no other remedy than a writ of mandamus.

214. Petitioners argue that injunctive and/or declaratory relief is inapplicable or inappropriate in this issue because the harm from the 2024 election is not yet realized and Petitioners are seeking to have Georgia election officials and/or federal officials bring the state of Georgia into compliance with federal and state law, specifically HAVA, NVRA, and the Georgia Election Code, O.G.C. § 21-2-50.2, absent a specific existing private cause of action Petitioners could assert that affords Petitioners relief.

215. Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents have allowed, and continue to allow, violations of federal election laws, Georgia's election laws, the United States Constitution, and federal civil rights laws pertaining to voter rights, which include mandating accurate registration rolls, transparency, compliance, and proper certification of the voting systems. 52 U.S.C. § 20501; 52 U.S.C. § 21083.

216. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the voter rolls within the state of Georgia are inaccurate, in violation of NVRA and HAVA. These are not list maintenance failures. The inaccuracies represent a failure to control the process of validating and registering only qualified citizen voters. These apparently invalid and/or illegal registrations voted in large numbers in Georgia's 2022 General Election.

217. Petitioners believe and therefore aver the Respondents have lost control of voter registration, leading to the distribution of ballots to what appear to be false registrants which results in a diluted vote and further harm to petitioners and the electorate at large. The voter-to-vote deficit is illustrative here in that the official canvas for the 2022 Georgia Election were 3,959,230 total votes even though only 3,924,926 votes were officially counted – a discrepancy of 34,304 votes. Upholding HAVA includes the risk assessments and proper certification of all system elements individually, and as a system as a whole.

218. Petitioners believe and therefore aver an election official's job is fidelity to the law in administering the electoral process, thereby protecting the integrity of an election, and the citizens from corruption in the election process.

219. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that the state of Georgia's failure to follow the law has resulted in election outcomes that are untrustworthy. The voting system in its present form cannot be used to produce trustworthy reliable results without the requested judicial intervention.

220. Petitioners believe and therefore aver a writ of mandamus is appropriate in this case. Respondents have failed, and continue to fail, in complying with federal and state laws regarding voting – including voting accuracy and accountability. It is clear from the Respondents conduct before, during, and after, the 2022 elections that, absent judicial action, Respondents will do nothing to repair the deficiencies noted above to ensure the integrity of Georgia elections are conducted in compliance with federal and state law.

221. The scope of Petitioners' mandamus request is narrow: Petitioners seek this Court to order Respondents follow existing federal and state law designed by Congress and the Georgia General Assembly to ensure that Georgia's 2024 and subsequent combined federal and state general elections produce reliable results within the margin of error rate allowed.

222. Petitioners hold up the mathematically unreliable (according to, inter alia, HAVA) 2022 Georgia combined federal and state General Election as evidence that, should the writ not issue, the apparent error rate in the 2024 and subsequent combined general elections will continue to exceed the law's mandated maximum error rate permitted before an election is unreliable.

223. Petitioners seek that the requested writ direct Respondents to investigate and remedy the issues exposed in the 2022 elections to avoid repeating the same mistakes in future combined federal and state general elections which are constitutionally administered by Georgia pursuant to Article I, Section 4 (delegating to the state legislatures the power to regulate federal elections for members of the House of Representatives, with Congress reserving the power to "...alter such Regulations [made by the various state legislatures]..."),¹¹ and, generally, Article II, Section 1 (granting state legislatures the power to determine how presidential electors are chosen) of the United States Constitution.¹²

¹¹ Petitioners aver that NVRA and HAVA are examples of Congress' exercising its power under Article I, Section 4 to "alter" Georgia's (and all other state's) otherwise absolute constitutional authority to regulate federal elections to the House of Representatives and, by application of the 17th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution providing for the direct election of two senators from each state, Congress may exercise its authority "...from time to time by Law make or alter such Regulations..." [of the various states...] to regulate the election of United States Senators as well the election of members of the House of Representatives.

¹² Petitioners include citation to Article II and the choosing of electors for president and vice-president, (later modified by the 12th Amendment), to again demonstrate the Framers' intent that the various states shall have presumptive authority to regulate and administer the election of all federal officers on the ballot for consideration in a federal election. Article I, Section 4 (as later amended) and Article II, Section (as later amended) are examples of where the Framers intentionally intertwined the powers of the various states with those of Congress, while making certain Congress maintained the ultimate power to regulate the election of its members, the then-prevailing concepts of Federalism and Dual Sovereignty notwithstanding.

224. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that since the Constitution reserves to Congress the ultimate (as opposed to the presumptive) power to regulate the means by which Congress' own members are chosen, while the Constitution simultaneously delegates the presumptive power to regulate such elections to, in this case, the General Assembly of the state of Georgia to further delegate as it sees fit to do so by law, the Respondents who are not federal officers per se, become federal officers by agency requiring them to carry out not only Georgia election law, but additionally to carry out federal election statutes passed by Congress and duly signed into law by the President under Congress' ultimate authority laid out in Article I, Section 4.

225. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that delegations of authority by the General Assembly of powers to supervise federal elections to any Respondent Georgia's officials pursuant to the General Assembly's power to regulate federal elections granted by Article I, Section 4, makes said Georgia Respondents into federal officers by agency or quasi- federal officials in conducting of their duties to regulate federal elections.

226. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that ordinary principles of federalism and dual sovereignty where a Federal District Court Judge would be reluctant to issue an order to a state of Georgia official pertaining to how that official may perform his/her official functions are inapplicable because the Respondent Georgia official is acting in his/her hybrid role as a quasi-federal officer as required by Article I, Section 4.

227. Petitioners believe and therefore aver, then, that this Honorable Court has authority to issue the requested writ of mandamus to compel, not just the Respondent Federal officers to ensure that federal election law is carried out in Georgia's 2024 and subsequent general elections, this Court also has the authority to compel Respondent state officials because said officials are charged by the U.S. Constitution in the carrying out of federal law where Congress has asserted its power to "alter" existing Georgia federal election procedures as it did in enacting NVRA and HAVA.

228. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that any delegation from the Georgia General Assembly to the Executive Branch of Georgia government (e.g., to the Governor who in turn delegates power to the Secretary of State, or any delegation of the General Assembly's power to regulate federal elections to the Attorney General) still falls under this Court's authority which is derived through Article I, Section 4's grant to the various state legislatures of the power to supervise federal elections.

229. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that simply because the General Assembly may have chosen to delegate some of its authority to supervise federal elections to Respondent members of the state of Georgia's Executive Branch of government, such delegation does not insulate such officials from the power of this Court, since this Court's power comes from its authority over the delegating entity, in this case the Georgia General Assembly.

ACTION TO COMPEL AN OFFICER OF THE UNITED STATES
TO PERFORM HIS DUTY – 28 U.S.C. § 1361

230. Petitioners incorporate the previous paragraphs as if set forth at length here.

231. District Courts are empowered with the ability to compel an officer or employee of the United States or any agency thereof to perform a duty owed to a plaintiff. 28 U.S.C. § 1361.

232. Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice are parties responsible for the enforcement of federal election laws, specifically HAVA and NVRA.

233. Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice are officers, employees, or an agency of the United States.

234. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice, have done nothing, or, at best, an inadequate job at addressing the issues presented above – namely, the inaccurate and likely fraudulent voter rolls and systems within Georgia.

235. The inaction and/or failure to act is harming Petitioners and the Georgia electorate at large warranting that the Court issue a Writ of Mandamus compelling Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice to enforce and police the two federal statutes at issue (NVRA and HAVA) for implementation in the Georgia 2024 General Election and subsequent combined federal and state elections administered by Georgia's officials and giving Respondents a reasonable period of time in which to do so.

236. Specifically, the Court should order Respondents to take preventative measures to see the apparent errors evident the 2022 elections are not repeated in the 2024 and subsequent elections and bring the state of Georgia into compliance with HAVA's specific mandate of no greater than 1 voting error out of 125,000 votes to ensure reliable election results as HAVA intended.

237. A writ of mandamus is warranted where “(1) no other adequate means exist to attain the relief, (2) the party's right to issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable, and (3) the writ is appropriate under the circumstances.” Hollingsworth v. Perry, 558 U.S. 183, 190 (2010)(quoting Cheney v. United States Dist. Ct., 542 U.S. 367, 380–81 (2004) (stay granted where district court likely did not follow federal law)).

238. A writ of mandamus is appropriate and necessary to vindicate the rights of citizens when a governmental agency or official has refused to perform a ministerial duty that the petitioner has established has a clear legal right to have the governmental agency or official, in this case Respondents, perform.

239. A “ministerial action” is a duty in a particular situation so plainly prescribed as to be free from doubt and equivalent to a positive command. Wilbur v. United States, 281 U.S. 206, 218 (1930); see also Will v. United States, 389 U.S. 90 (1967).

240. Relief contemplated under statute providing that federal district courts shall have original jurisdiction of any action in nature of mandamus to compel an officer or employee of United States or any agency thereof to perform a duty owed to plaintiff is at least as broad as under common-law writ of mandamus. Carey v. Local Bd. No. 2, Hartford, Conn., 297 F.Supp. 252 (D. Conn. 1969), aff'd, 412 F.2d 71 (2d Cir. 1969).

241. Petitioners believe and therefore aver they have no other remedy than a writ of mandamus and to compel an officer or employee of the United States or any agency thereof to perform a duty owed to plaintiff/petitioner.

242. Petitioners argue that an injunctive and/or declaratory relief is inapplicable or inappropriate in this issue because the harm from the 2024 election is not yet realized and Petitioners are seeking to have Georgia election officials and/or federal officials bring Georgia into compliance with federal and state law, specifically HAVA, NVRA, and the Election Code, absent a specific private cause of action that affords Petitioners relief.

243. Petitioners believe and therefore aver Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice have allowed, and continue to allow, violations of federal election laws, the United States Constitution, and federal civil rights laws pertaining to voter rights, which include mandating accurate registration rolls, transparency, compliance, and proper certification of the voting systems.

244. Petitioners believe and therefore aver the voter rolls within the state of Georgia are inaccurate, in violation of NVRA and HAVA. That these are not list maintenance failures. Instead, the inaccuracies represent a failure to control the process of validating and registering only qualified citizen voters. Persons voted in the Georgia 2022 General Election in significant numbers who held apparently invalid and/or illegal registrations.

245. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Respondents' failure to follow the law, or enforce the law, has resulted in election outcomes that are untrustworthy and unreliable. The state of Georgia's voting system in its present form cannot be trusted to produce reliable results under HAVA, because Respondents will not follow the dictates of the Act necessitating judicial intervention.

246. A writ of mandamus against Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice is appropriate in this case. Respondents Merrick Garland, in his Official Capacity as Attorney General of the United States, and the United States Department of Justice have failed, and continue to fail, in forcing the state of Georgia to comply with federal laws regarding voting – including voting accuracy and accountability as is clear from how the 2022 Georgia General Election was conducted.

247. Petitioners believe and therefore aver that without judicial action, Respondents will do nothing to comply with HAVA and other federal and state statutes to ensure the integrity of Georgia's elections and the same issues evident from the 2022 General Election will call into question the validity of Georgia's 2024 General Election results.

248. The scope of this request for a writ of mandamus is narrow: Petitioners seek a judicial order requiring Respondents both federal and state to follow the laws cited herein in conducting the 2024 and subsequent federal elections, and adequately investigate and remedy the problems exposed in and 2022 elections and detailed above.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Petitioners respectfully request Your Honorable Court formally recognize Georgia's voter registration rolls contained hundreds of thousands of apparent errors in the 2022 General Election. Further, that these apparent errors took the form of illegal duplicate registrations, incomplete or unknown addresses, registrations on or before the registrant's date of birth, age discrepant registrants, registrations on a federal holiday, registrations on Sunday, registrations with modified dates of birth, registrants whose voter history inexplicably changed, registrants with registration dates altered backwards, and registrants with altered "unique" state voter identification numbers. Petitioner asks this Court to enter an order in mandamus compelling Respondents to ministerially correct the apparent errors evident from the 2022 elections data, ascertain to the Court's satisfaction the reasons why the 2022 errors occurred, and prevent those same or similar ministerial errors from recurring during the Georgia 2024 General Election and all subsequent federal general elections to ensure the integrity of Georgia's combined federal and state elections going forward for years to come. Petitioners, additionally, seek pursuant to permissible causes of action under NVRA and HAVA, this Court order that the state of Georgia's may not certify the 2024 General Election unless and until the relevant Respondents have demonstrated to the Court that the 2024 General Election and subsequent elections were conducted in conformity with federal and state law and with fewer than the maximum errors permissible. Petitioners further request this Honorable Court order the state, and any subdivision thereof responsible for voter registrations, submit voter registration requests (and any existing registrations reasonably in question) to the Department of Homeland Security to verify the citizenship or immigration status of persons seeking registration to vote or who are presently on the state's voter rolls whenever there exist any reliable indicators that an applicant or registered voter may not be a U.S. citizen. (see: 8 U.S.C. secs.1644 & 1373(c)). Lastly, Petitioners seek and order in mandamus requiring all public officials named as Respondents perform their duties as the law intended whether it be conducting federal elections in conformity with the law or investigating, and where warranted in their discretion, prosecuting persons or entities for failing to perform their duties in conformity to the law after being given timely notice to do so.
